FLY TYING @ 7:00

Michael Schweit will demonstrate then step-by-step teach a Tuna Tamer

This fly has worked on albacore, barracuda, bonefish, bonito, calico bass, dorado, silver salmon and yellowtail. It can be tied Deceiver or Clouser style and I will explain and show you the difference. If you tie it small sizes, it may even work for trout.

MATERIAL LIST

HOOK: Long shank streamer hook. As I tie for salt, I use much larger hooks (I'll tie on a Mustad 31360, #5/0), but it can be down sized (TMC 5262, 5263, 300, 9394, 9395, 811S, etc.)

THREAD: Black & Strong ~ You have choices depending on the hook size you're using: UNI 6/0 or 3/0; UTC 120 or 210 denier; Veevus or ULTRA G.S.P.

EYES: ## Anything from bead chain to barbell eyes. Go according to the fly size you are tying and do not overweight it. You want this fly to jig, and not fall straight to the bottom.

BODY: ## Black Bucktail. You can substitute what you are comfortable with as long as it builds up some bulk.

TAIL/WING: ## Red Strung Chinese saddle hackle, but you can use long hackles from any neck. I have also used Schlappen but those are pretty large and webby.
